

An Interview with Prominent Citizens

The CHIEF man has been interviewing a few of our prominent citizens the past week. The weather has been a little rough, and our town folks have had some spare time and have treated the CHIEF man very kindly indeed, and have opened their hearts and their mouths and the words they spoke have been replete with good sense and much wisdom. The first man interviewd was Mr. Chris Vogler. He said that he was a firm beleiver in the future of Downs. Thought that the New York Central railroad was an assured fact in the spring. It is his opinion that Mr. Cleveland's civil service reform policy was a failure. Mr. Vogler is much opposed to the proposed city ordinance levying a tax of five dollars each on cats.
